EVERGREEN

It seems that summer time is most here as the children are beginning to go bare footed, while some of the older ones are predicting another cool spell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Martin and daughter, Miss E. E. Martin, of Lynchburg, were week end guests of Miss Lillie Cawthon and Mr.

Goodman Ransom.

Rev. J. E. White and wife were dinner guests of Mrs.

Floyd Woodbridge Sunday.

Miss Verta Simms of Lynchburg, was week end guest of her home people. Also her father, Mr. Chap Simms, of Lynchburg.

Messrs. Jack and Henry

Staples will open their new store on the high a next week. We wish them much success.

Mrs. S. J. Jennings and son,

Daniel, were visitors in Roanoke last week.

We have a new member to our cradle roll—Peyton J.

Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thornhill have moved in their new house.

Mr. Paul Brown has moved to Tower Hill, where he has opened a store and it is said he is doing good business.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Beal are back home, after spending the winter at Pamplin with their son, Mr. Hutchy Beal.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Moore and children spent Sunday with their parents near Glenfall.

Mr. Hunter Moore who has been very ill is able to be out again.

Mr. Tom Moore, who for the last two months has been a patient at Baptist Hospital of Lynchburg is at home again.

Mr. Pinkie Harris has moved to Tower Hill, Tower Hill is getting to be quite a village.

Mr. Sam Thornhill was called to Arlington Friday on account of illness of his wife.

BOY PICKS SINGER FROM 8,000 BIRDS

Is Expert in Musical Habits of Canaries.

New York.—Otto can't speak English, but he can pick a singing canary out of the flock of 8,000, all chirping at once.

Otto is a German boy, one of several upon whose judgment the canary importers of New York rely when they guarantee the musical habits of their birds. He stands all day in the center of an upstairs room in downtown Manhattan. Around the walls are tiers of tin cages, each containing one canary. The 8,000 potential singers keep up a continuous chirping while they pick at the seeds in their cages, so that the earth, discordant note hangs always in the air.

But Otto does not depend on his ears. He watches their necks and when he sees a movement in the feathers under the beak that indicates that the bird is about to sing, he points to the cage and the bird is then segregated for sale to retailers as warblers who really sing.

It is obvious, therefore, that canary voices are discovered after the yellow birds arrive on this side. Not so, however, with the opera stars of the bird world, the balladists.

Balladists are patiently trained by experts or harness makers in their native Germany. The latter whistle one song over and over again to the birds, until the birds have learned the song. Some learn as many as three songs. They, of course, bring the highest price, which is $100.

In canary-breeding time in the Harz mountains, the birds are taken to the harz mountains. The birds are taken
